EMPHASIS CENTRED ON

TESTIMONY OF PLITT
In his review of the evidence, Justice Seabury directed the jury that to find the defendant guilty they must decide that the stories of Rose, Vallen and Webber were supported by witnesses not involved in the crime. This centred emphasis on the testimony of Charles Phili Ir, who was Backer's tree emphasis on the testimony of Charles Plitt. Jr., who was Becker's press agent when the former police leutenant was master of the old "Strong Arm Squad." Plitt was a witness for the defense at the first trial, but at the second he took the strud at the call of the district attorney Becker's attorneys tried to prove he was not.

This point, it was said to-night, might form the basis upon which lecker's attorneys promised to take the case once more to a higher court. It was a similar question, involving the status of Sam Schepps, a witness at the first trial, but not at this, which enabled Becker to gain a new trial from the Court of Appeals after his first conviction.

entered formal objection to Justice Scabury's remarks to the jury. "I take exception," he said, "to the en-tire charge, on the ground that it is an animated argument."

The verdiet caught Becker unpre-pared, for when the jury first retired his lawyer told him he looked for an acquittal. The defendant at that time declared he did not believe it possible he could be convicted.

twelve sensible men can give credence to such cooked-up stories as those told by Rose. Webber, Vallon and Pilit. I don't expect a conviction. The worst that can happen is a disagreement. Charles is innocent, and he will be exonerated."
